Ballet Central at The Hawth, Crawley – Monday 24 June

What better way to spend Midsummer's Eve than a night at the ballet?

Ballet Central gives audiences across the country the chance to see the company's young and dynamic dancers showcasing newly commissioned works and celebrated masterpieces by the dance industry's top choreographers.

In 2019, Ballet Central's diverse range of dance and theatre will perform in 20 venues across England over a five-month period and will go on to perform in Tokyo.

The most convenient venue for Leatherhead is Crawley.

We've made a group booking in the Stalls and, to make the evening extra special, arranged a coach for travel. Coach will leave Randalls Road (station) car park at 6 pm then pick-up at lay-by at West door of Parish Church at 6.05 pm. The performance commences 7.30 pm and finishes around 9.15 pm.

Programme includes:

Kenneth MacMillan's House of Birds, based on the Grimm Brothers' macabre fairy tale, Jorinda and Joringel.

An extract from Frederick Ashton's acclaimed Valses Nobles et Sentimentales performed to Maurice Ravel's suite of waltzes.

Jasmin Vardimon's In Between, a physical contemporary work first created with the National Youth Dance Company in 2013.

For the first time, Ballet Central is collaborating with Thiago Soares, principal dancer with the Royal Ballet, who has created a new work with Ballet Central's young dancers.

Calvin Richardson's unique version of The Dying Swan Solo after Mikhail Fokin.

Christopher Marney, Artistic Director of Ballet Central presents his Carousel Dances, inspired by the 1945 musical Carousel by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein.

Closing date for bookings has to be Monday 6 May. Tickets allocated in order of booking received.
